COURSE DESCRIPTION

Content: This course is a historical survey that will assess processes of change over time within a chronological and geographical framework. Italy is the homeland of the Romans. Rome was founded in central Italy and from there the Romans started to expand their culture, language, institutions and military power first conquering all of Italy, then a great part of Europe and many of the lands on the Mediterranean Sea.

This course focuses on history, culture, society, religion, art, architecture, literature and daily life of the Romans from the time of Julius Caesar, and Rome's violent conversion from a Republic to an Empire, to the long success of that Empire until to its final collapse in the 5th century A.D.

The analysis of the major institutions and achievements of the Romans will help the students in tracing the origins of many aspects of European culture and of contemporary western societies and political systems.

Students will experience ancient Roman history in person, enhancing both their knowledge and their critical approach, through guided visits and on-site learning activities.

Both primary and secondary sources will be used to help students to develop analytical interpretations of textual and non-written evidence.

Excerpts from major authors of the period such as Suetonius and Tacitus.

CSU GE category: D5

Method: Illustrated lectures. Classes and lectures will be held in English. Research documents for the students (bibliography, graphic materials, synopsis of the course, and color slides).

As Italy is the homeland of the Romans, the course is supplemented by visits, field trips and on-site learning activities.

Teaching methods include:

- ✓ Lectures and class discussion;
 - ✓ Assigned readings and class discussion;
 - ✓ Web researches;
 - ✓ Videos;
 - ✓ Students-led seminars and students' presentations;
 - ✓ In-class group activities.
 - ✓ Museums and site visits.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this course, students will:

- Gain understanding of the general value of the knowledge of ancient history and culture as a means of interpreting the human experience in general and the origins of modern societies.
- Have a good understanding of the concept of primary and secondary source.
- Define and master the basic events of Roman History, from the foundation of Rome to the fall of the Empire.
- Become familiar with the daily life, values and social attitudes of the ancient Romans during the Republic and the Empire.
- Demonstrate familiarity with some cultural issues typical of the period studied: the impact of Greek culture, the role of women, the importance and functionality of Roman religion, general features of art, Roman architecture and structural engineering, relations with non-roman populations, the frontiers and their cultural function.
- Demonstrate familiarity with some institutional features of Ancient Rome: the administrative organization, the role of the different institutions, the role of the army, the cursus honorum, the structure of the provinces.
- Trace the origins of many aspects of Western European culture and of contemporary Western society in general.

- Gain understanding of the political, religious and intellectual heritage of Roman society and use it as a means of interpreting the human experience through history.
- Recognize and understand how much of the English language is affected by Latin vocabulary.

Besides, the course has two main focuses: Institutions and Culture.

Students will have the possibility to observe and study the different solutions that the Roman civilization gave to the problem of political, administrative, fiscal and judiciary organization and to understand the origin of several issues concerning contemporary Europe, through the great cultural experience of the Roman world.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

At the end of the semester students will be able to:

- Demonstrate knowledge of particular social practices and cultural systems as constructed by the ancient Roman society.
- Demonstrate the skills necessary to engage people living in today's societies through knowledge of the cultural heritage left by ancient Roman civilization.
- Demonstrate openness to difference and critical reflection when encountering values and beliefs that are different from their own.
- Demonstrate knowledge of the general value of ancient history and culture as a means of interpreting human experience and the origins of contemporary societies.
- Identify possible causes and consequences of significant historical events of the Roman civilization and demonstrate knowledge of the origins of many aspects of the European culture and of contemporary Western societies.
- Explain processes of change over time as well as historical continuity within a chronological and geographical framework.
- Understand and formulate historical argument, discussion and reasoning, evaluate historical evidence, and assess historical interpretations.

VERY IMPORTANT: Failure to complete all work and exams assigned in the course could result in failure of the class.

CLASS CODE OF CONDUCT

Activities unrelated to the course (including private conversations, emailing, text messaging, reading, web surfing, etc.) are not permitted during class time. Please turn off or put all electronic devices on silent mode prior to the beginning of the class.

Safety

All students are expected to respect the safety and security policies in place at CSU Firenze. Students will be expected to follow the procedures outlined by CSU Firenze for the safe use of all spaces, including the upstairs. Refusal to respect these policies and procedures could lead to access restrictions or disciplinary actions.

Academic Dishonesty Will Not Be Tolerated.

Any form of plagiarism or cheating may result in a failing final grade in the course and might be reported to IP and your campus. You are better off spending your time studying for the class. If you have questions about what constitutes academic dishonesty, please refer to the student handbook and catalog of your campus and also ask me and/or the Resident Director for more information.

Students with Disabilities

Upon identifying yourself to the instructor and the university, students with disabilities will receive reasonable accommodation for learning and evaluations. For more information, contact the Resident Director.

ATTENDANCE AND PARTICIPATION

Regular attendance and active participation is mandatory. Particularly, completing the readings and home assignments on a regular basis is paramount for the successful accomplishment of this course.

Attendance to all CSU courses is mandatory. Only TWO unexcused absence are allowed during the semester but more than two unexcused absences will lower your grade as follows (excused absences will be accepted for serious medical reasons or emergencies): 3 unexcused absences, lowers one letter grade; 4 unexcused absences, lowers two letter grades; 5 unexcused absences, lowers 3 letter grades. More than five unexcused absences could result in failure of the course.

In order not to disrupt the class, punctuality is required. Students are expected to be in class at the beginning of the session hour; any delay exceeding five minutes will be considered as absence.

Dates of mid-term and final exams cannot be changed for individual travel plans or personal needs. Students should take note of the dates and hours of the midterm and final exams and plan their trips accordingly or after the final exam. It is important to inform friends and relatives about these exam dates so that no tickets are purchased for you that will interfere with these exam dates. Missing the midterm or the final exam could result in a failure of the course.

During the academic year, photocopies and other materials may be distributed in class by the instructor. Students who are not in class, or are absent during a session, are responsible for getting the materials from their classmates and making their own photocopies.

Participation: Continuous lateness as well as leaving the class for long breaks without the instructor's permission definitely influences the evaluation of your participation. It is important that students come to class on time. Three delays/early departures will be considered as one absence. A correct, active and responsible participation is strictly recommended. During lectures, students are not allowed to use any electronic devices (cell-phones, Ipad, Blackberry etc.). Unless previously approved by the instructor, the use of the computer in class is restricted to oral presentations. Note-taking is highly recommended. Eating in class is NOT allowed. Cellular phones must be turned off or placed on silent mode during class.

Important: Exams

You must attend all exams and quizzes as scheduled. Dates of mid-term and final exams can not be changed. Make-up exams are given only for valid reasons. Please check your academic calendar BEFORE you book trips, flights and hotels.

Missing the midterm or the final exam could result in failure of the course.
